

Smart City “Panic Attacks”

Smart city sensors capture environmental data for convenience and emergency purposes, but what would happen if those sensors were tricked? IBM X-Force Red and Threatcare recently discovered 17 security vulnerabilities in smart city devices that could give an attacker the ability to inconvenience citizens or cause city-wide panic.

Smart city growth continues to expand, with 66% of U.S. cities investing and 25% exploring.*

*National League of Cities