

Workday Financial Management

Make strategic, informed decisions faster

Having the right financial information at your fingertips is critical, especially in an age of almost constant disruption. So how do you successfully gain insight into what is driving your business in real time, all while transforming finance and human resources into more strategic functions to meet today's ever-changing business needs?

With a full range of financial capabilities, real-time business insight and fully auditable process management, Workday Financial Management is transforming enterprise finance. And with industry leading know-how, as well as innovative tools and methodologies, IBM brings proven expertise to drive ongoing improvement and higher ROI for Workday customers.

IBM recognizes that every customer is different, so we focus on delivering a customized solution that helps make effective and efficient use of everything that Workday has to offer. Our proven methodologies tailor the solution to meet your specific business needs and the configurable process maps, Workday-optimized templates and our extensive use of collaboration technologies work to streamline tasks and accelerate time to value.

Our financials team is dedicated to client success, solving customer challenges and finding new ways to deliver additional value to customers beyond just deploying their Workday solution.

IBM's Workday practice has helped clients:

- Reduce expense processing time by 80 percent
- Reduce Charts of Accounts from 4,000 to less than 200
- Increase their ability to track spend and control procurement and supplier process
- Integrate Round Cause/Salesforce, which significantly increases visibility into gifts and donations
- Re-engineer accounts payable to increase efficiencies

Highlights:

- Bring specific industry and domain expertise to each engagement
- Provide functional, technical and integration experts
- Work closely with customers to gain a strong understanding of business needs

During initial deployment and across your solution lifecycle, IBM works in close collaboration with your organization to exceed customer expectations, providing key checkpoints during the deployment process to help ensure customer satisfaction. IBM is dedicated to the success of our clients and is passionate about the work.

From Financial Management and Expenses to Endowments and Grants, your business processes can be streamlined, automated and more transparent. In addition, your financial leaders can gain better and easier access to data for planning, reporting and analysis — when they need it.
