

Automate your IT and save 50%¹

The success of today's digital businesses depends on the performance and availability of critical business applications and the efficiency of the infrastructure on which they run.

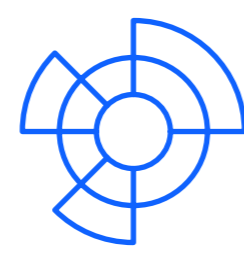

Benefits

IBM helps you meet the dynamic demands of today's complex IT applications and operations with AI-powered automation.

Faster decision making with full-stack, enterprise observability

Smarter resource allocation with dynamic resource management and cost optimization

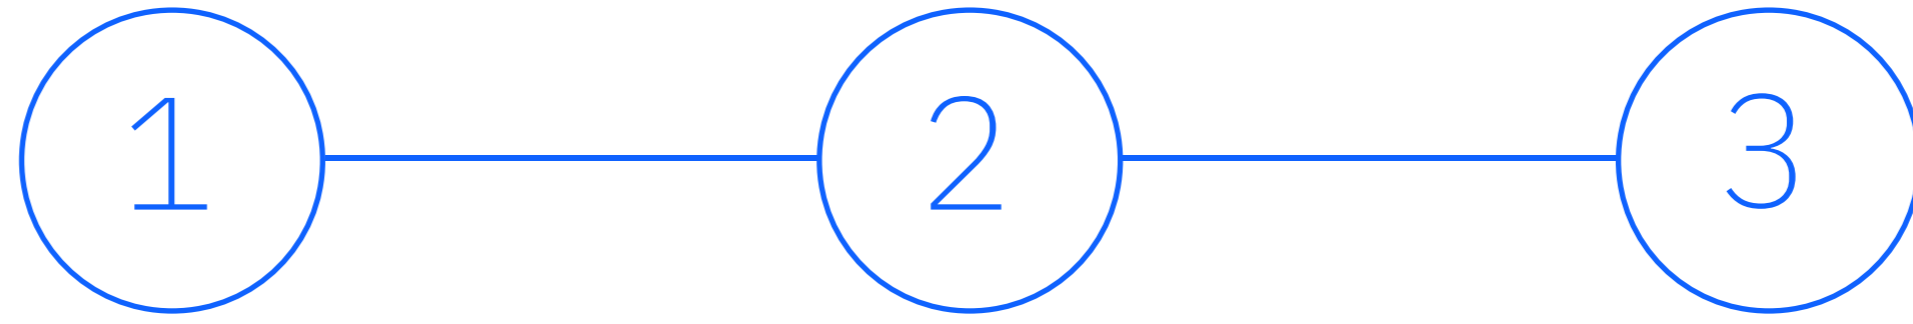

Predictive AIOps with autonomous problem determination, remediation, and avoidance

This means you can assure application performance and meet compliance requirements while ensuring an exceptional and cost effective customer experience.

The IT Ops maturity curve

IT and app team maturity

Value and agility

Limited instances of observability or resource management

Disconnected teams experimenting with separate programs and tools

Enterprise observability and dynamic application resource management

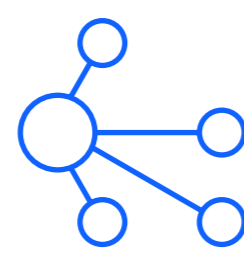

Connected teams using full-stack observability and some dynamic resource optimization

AI-powered automation at scale

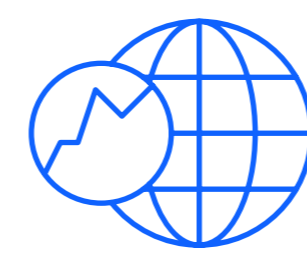

Common tools, automated decisions, and predictive insights, allowing teams to focus on innovation

Get started

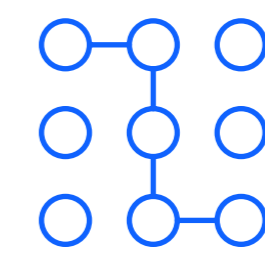

Clients see ROI in the first month with a focus on continuous optimization over time. Start your journey to value by:

Maximizing cloud elasticity by matching cloud resources to application demand

Optimizing prepaid reserved instance coverage and utilization

Decommissioning stranded or orphaned compute and storage

Suspending workloads when not in use

Accelerating cloud migration strategies through cloud savings, better performance and higher staff productivity

Put your applications on autopilot with the only consumption-based AI-powered solution that takes the guesswork out of how to dynamically allocate resources and assure application performance.
