

What makes the University of Zurich flourish academically?

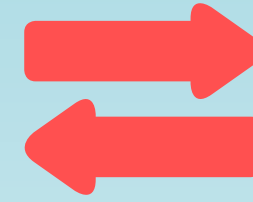

Fast, effective collaboration is critical in a university environment to support both group assignments and state-of-the-art research

With a collaboration hub built on IBM technology, the University of Zurich delivers communication tools to suit any scenario

High uptake from students and staff, with 40,000 total users and access from over 3,000 mobile devices

Richer collaboration between staff and students sparks even greater academic success

The solution offers lower data security risks in comparison to storing and exchanging information externally

Enhances academic life at the university by enabling staff and students to work together more efficiently

