IBM Corporate Service Corps at work: empowering girls and women around the world

For over 100 years, IBM has made engagement with the communities in which it does business a priority. The CSC has continued that tradition for nearly 10 years with a deep commitment to supporting the economic growth, education, well being and safety of women and girls.

Scope of IBM CSC projects for women

- 30 countries with a women and girl focused project
- 52% (289 projects) support sectors that serve women (basic services)
- 28% (155 projects) with women as clients and beneficiaries
- $15 Million — the value of women and girl focused projects

Some IBM CSC projects focused on women and girls

- Developing strategies to prevent mother-to-child HIV transmission – Ghana
- Expanding access to education through ICT-enabled solutions (in partnership with the Peace Corps) – Ghana
- Improving quality and number of cervical cancer screenings – Kenya, Peru
- Strategic development delivering entrepreneurial training for 89,000 women and creation of 25 new business clubs – Kenya

“The Corporate Service Corps of IBM has placed us on an incredible trajectory that we’ve never imagined. They’ve outlined plans for us for the next 3 to 5 years… to allow us to achieve our dreams that we never thought would be realized.”

— Dr. Daron Ferris, Founder, CerviCusco

“We have a resource to bring information and technology directly to girls, their families and communities. Another positive outcome is that we now have improved partnerships.”

— Carla Ellis, Peace Corps Country Director, Ghana
