Skills for migration from IBM WebSphere Heritage Products to IBM WebSphere Process Server

Role
There are many job roles that may potentially be involved in migration from WebSphere Heritage Products to WebSphere Process Server. Some common examples are:

- Integration Developer - Responsible for assembling application components into a complete solution, and preparing this solution for thorough testing and subsequent deployment
- Business Analyst - Identifies customer and business needs, captures requirements, creates and models business use cases
- System Administrator - Performs the installation, configuration and day-to-day tasks associated with ensuring the smooth and efficient operation of a WebSphere runtime environment

Assumptions
It is assumed that the individual following this roadmap has basic skills in the following areas:
- Good understanding of relevant WebSphere Heritage products
  - WebSphere InterChange Server (WICS)
  - WebSphere Business Integration Server Foundation (WBI-SF)
  - MQ Workflow

Objectives
After completing this training, students should be able to:
- Explain Business Process Management (BPM) concepts
- List the WebSphere Business Process Management products
- Describe the major components of WebSphere Process Server
- List the major tasks involved in migrating from a WebSphere Heritage Product to WebSphere Process Server
